A Note from the Executive Director

Dear Colleagues, Students, Parents, and Supporters of Collegiate Recovery,

It is with great excitement that we publish and share this new Collegiate Recovery Directory. Following in the footsteps of Trent Boozer and Recovery Campus Magazine is no small task. Trent and his team created, developed, and distributed the original Recovery Campus Directory for several years and I know well the very hard work that went into collecting the data necessary to make that publication possible. The Recovery Campus Directory immediately became a staple on college campuses across the US and that is a testament to the legacy of Recovery Campus Magazine.

At ARHE, we have been working to gather information from our members over the last several years to understand how we can continue to best serve the field of collegiate recovery. It became very clear that an updated version of a collegiate recovery program directory was in high demand, so we got to work! Thank you so much to all the programs that sent in their information to be included in this new directory. If you are reading this and are not yet part of the directory, please reach out to our team so we can make sure to update the publication with your institution's data.

I am thrilled to have this resource once again available. I can not enumerate the number of emails or calls I have with folks who are searching for an easier way to search through all your amazing program offerings in order to find the community best for them and this will be a perfect resource to share far and wide.

I want to offer a very special thanks to our team here at ARHE, especially Caroline Beidler, who have spent countless hours working to make this publication a reality. We hope that it will be a useful tool for anyone who wants to know more about collegiate recovery programs. Our plan is to update this regularly and since it is a digital publication, we can update data in real time. Just reach out to us with any updates, corrections, or additions.

Thank you all for your continued support of ARHE and the field of collegiate recovery!

Sincerely,

Kristina Canfield, M.Ed.

Executive Director, ARHE

2024 Collegiate Recovery Programs

The ARHE Collegiate Recovery Program Directory is the most up-to-date list of Collegiate Recovery Programs who are members of the Association of Recovery in Higher Education.

The following information is collected annually and focuses on the primary characteristics of Collegiate Recovery Programs, both developing and established programs.

Please note that this directory is updated annually. Contact the program directly for more information to ensure the most up-to-date information.

If your program would like to be listed in the next issue of the directory or you would like to inquire about advertising opportunities, please reach out to our Membership and Outreach Manager for more information at recovery@collegiaterecovery.org.

The University of Iowa Collegiate Recovery Program (CRP) provides an environment that supports the therapeutic and educational needs of Iowa students who are considering recovery, in recovery, or wanting to support those in any stage of recovery from addiction. We offer support groups, workshops, and social events for students wanting to make changes to their substance use to connect with peers. Our Recovery Ally training is offered each semester and is open to all students, faculty and staff. While we are a small program, we have consistently seen growth in the last several years and are continuing collaboration with campus and community partners to further our growth.

The Donovan Program hosts two weekly recovery support meetings, the Early Recovery Group, our abstinence-based group, and Skills for Harm Reduction, our psychoeducational space for students who are recovering from any addiction and at any stage of substance use or recovery. The program also maintains a 17 bed substance-free thematic community and the university has additional dorm-style substance-free housing. Additionally, we host trainings, panel discussions, and social events as well as collaborate with campus partners to provide recovery-inclusive support for students and naloxone trainings. The dean for recovery is available to discuss any student's substance use, discuss recovery goals, provide referrals to other on- and off-campus supports, and serves as the advisor to SoBear, the substance-free activity club which hosts weekly social programming for students who choose to remain substance-free that day.

The UCalgary Recovery Community (UCRC) at the University of Calgary (UC) is an innovative peer-driven program that aims to support students, staff, and faculty who are in recovery, or curious to explore their relationship with substance use and/or other types of addictive behaviors (e.g., gambling, gaming, eating disorders, etc.). The UCRC supports and respects all recovery pathways, from harm reduction to abstinence, and everything in between. The UCRC is also a safe place for individuals who do not engage in substances for personal, health, cultural and/or religious reasons. The UCRC was established in 2021 and is currently funded by grants including the City of Calgary and the UC Student Union, a In October 2023, UCRC received funding from UC Administration to open a dedicated space on campus, The UCRC is committed to providing programming that adheres to EDIA principles for all campus members, including faculty and staff. Operating at the intersection of harm reduction, prevention and recovery, UCRC supports include 1-on-1 peer support, weekly mutual aid meetings, on-campus outreach, scholarships/awards, substance-free housing, lived experience speakers, presentations by educators and professionals in the addiction and recovery field, substance-free events, recovery ally training, and a Recovery Navigator certification (for students and staff). The UCRC serves as the coordination, innovation, and research hub for Recovery on Campus, the first province-wide collegiate recovery initiative in Canada. CRP programming is being piloted through UCRC (e.g., substance free housing, needs assessment) that serves as a template for 26 partnered post-secondary institutions across Alberta to adapt to their own unique campus contexts.
